Definition of Terminology

Transcript – A transcript is a document issued by the institution attended that lists the courses completed, credits/hours (if applicable) and grade for each. This document must be signed by the appropriate university officials.

Diploma – Diploma is a general name for an institution-issued document awarding the final degree/qualification. It should have the date of award and be signed by appropriate university officials.

Official documents – Official documents are those sent directly to our office from the educational institution. Official documents can come in three ways.

- A. via post to our office from the institution attended
- B. digitally from the institution through a third-party secure provider
- C. electronically via email by the issuing institution directly

Original documents – Original documents are those issued to the holder by the awarding institution and sent to our office by the client. Original documents will be returned to the client, unless the documents are determined to be tampered with, fraudulent, or inauthentic. Mailing fees will apply.

Electronic documents – Electronic documents are those sent by the client to Academic Evaluation Services, Inc. via electronic means such as email or upload to our application system. Please be aware that we may require official paper documents from some countries and in some situations. If we do not require official documents, scanned documents are accepted if they meet certain criteria. Acceptable scans must be scanned from original documents (not copies), be high resolution (we need to be able to see the paper color), clear and legible, in color, and include both front and back of each document. If there are imprinted seals, they should be clearly visible. If a scan does not show the security features, a photograph of the document may be acceptable.

Translation – Translation is the process of translating words or text from one language into another. This is separate and distinct from the process of evaluating academic documents from one country in comparison to the United States educational system. Any document not issued in English will need a translation. Please review our website for our translation requirements.

Verification – Verification is when our office contacts the institution directly to verify the authenticity of documents submitted by the client. A separate verification fee is required for each institution.
